Today will be the last chance for the patrons of this popular theatre to see the greatest little actress of the screen, Mary Pickford, in Hearts Adrift, that wonderful photoplay masterpiece which has been crowding this theatre at every performance. Unsurpassed for its magnificent scenery and a plot that is gripping throughout, Hearts Adritt is easily one of the Mary Pickford unperalleted successes not often seen. Little Mary's magnetism prevails throughout the whole picture, holding everyone in her spell as she flits before them on the screen. This feature will be shown at every performance today, and no one can afford to miss seeing it. The other photoplays include a powerful two reel K. B. drama called Love vs. Duty. Our Mutual Gird is also shown in a new series of adventures, and a funny Keystone comte also shown in a new series of adventures, and a funny Keystone comedy called Down on the Farm completes the photoplay part of the programme. The concert programme given by Mensrs. Craig and Boyle includes Rafferty's Chimen, a rollicking novelty number, sung by Mr. Boyle in his own original manner. Mr. Craig is singing The Resery, a song that shows his splendid voice to good advantage. Ever of These is the dust number which gives both of these artists plenty of opportunity to display their vocal talents. This team of singers are getting more popular every day and their singing is a treat no one should miss. Another sing feature is booked for the first half of next week, with Laura Sawyar in A Dauginter of the Hills, a beautiful drams of sucient Rome in three resis. This production was prothree resis. The boys' father having died, leaves an estate including buried treasure on a distant island, which the boys agree to divide equally upon discovering it. Crane Wilbur as Gabriel on his away to the island is caught in the quicksand and the wheked brother does not help him escape from it, but flees to the old home, with the expectation of winning Gabriel's sweetheart and fortune. He stays at the home of the girl, whose father conducts a famous old fun, and upon retiring a guilty conscience overtakes Peter and he imagines he sees the ghost of his

THE BECKONING ROAD. the birt road the low road, the read To blossomed fields of mem'ry where our sweetest funcies play;
The road that leads to woodlands and beside a singing brook
That mirrors pictures of us as we used to be and look.

The high road, the low road, the road that twists and bends
And leads beyond the city where all sordid striving ends—
That takes us back to childhood by the paths we loved to roam,
Where those who love us for us wait to bid us "welcome home."

The high road, the low road, the road apast the mill.

That leads to vales of mem'ry where it's all so sweet and still.

Where every recollection is a vision wondrous fair—

The road that's best to travel le the road that takes us there.

—John D. Wells, in Buffalo News.

Alone the lane beside the mead
Where cowship-gold is in the grass.
I watched the milkmaid's easy speed.
A tall and springing country lass;
But though she had a merry plan
To shield her from my soft replies,
Love played at Catch-me-if-you-can
In Mary's eyes.

A mile or twain from Varley Bridge
I plucked a dock-lear for a fan.
And drove away the constant midge.
And cooled her forehead's strip of But though the maiden would not spare
My hand her pretty finger tips,
Love played at Catch-me-if-you-can
On Mary's lips.

And now the vilinge flashed in sight,
And closer came I to her side;
A flush ran down into the white,
The impulse of a pinkish tide;
And though her face was turned away.
How much her panting heart confessed,
Love played at Find-me-if-you-may
In Mary's breast!
